RED SEA.

Further particulars regarding the position of the wrecks of the Avocet and Teddington.

The following Notice to Mariners, issued by the British Admiralty, London (No. 115 of the year 1838), is re-published with reference to Nos. 51 (1) and 51, dated respectively the 19th August and 15th September 1837, and previous orders on the subject, issued by this · Department.

With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 190 of 1887, on reported sunken rocks northward of Jebel Zakur island :-

Telegraphic information has been received from Lieutenant and Commander T. F. Pullen, H. M's. Surveying Vessel Stark, that he has found a small coral patch, with a least depth of 15 feet, situated in lat. 14° 22′ 8″ N., long. 42° 41′ 32″ E.

This is undoubtedly the danger on which the stram vessels Avoret and Teddington struck during last year. It has midway between the two best positions, which, from conflicting evidence, could be assigned to the respective vessels when they struck. The depths around the rock are 28 to 30 fathoms.

The Stork's search is the fourth that has been made by H. M's. ships before this small danger has been re-discovered.

Vessels passing nown the Red Sea should keep to the westward of this rock, and should remember that irregular lateral currents sometimes set across the sea; and if, when on the homeward voyage, they pass castward of Abu Ail, care should be taken to steer to the westward after rounding that island, until Jebel Zukur summit hears about S.S.E. & E.

There is little doubt that the loss of the Arceet was due to one of the lateral currents above mentioned, as not only was the steam vessel St. Oswald in company with the drecet, also to the eastward of the correct track, but other vessels passed on both sides of the two vessels while stopped to save the crew of the Acocet.

(The bearing is Magnetic. Variation 4° Westerly in 1888).

Further particulars regarding the position of the wrecks of the Avocet and Teddington.

The following Notice to Mariners, issued by the British Admiralty, London (No. 115 of the year 1858), is re-published with reference to Nos. 51 (1) and 54, dated respectively the 19th August and 15th September 1887, and previous orders on the subject, issued by this Department.

With r fercuce to Notice to Mariners, No. 190 of 1887, on reported sunken rocks northward of Jebel Zukur island:---

Telegraphic information has been received from Lieutenant and Commander T. F. Pullen, H. M's. Surveying Vessel Stork, that he has found a small coral patch, with a least depth of 15 feet, situated in lat. 14° 22′ 8" N, long 42° 41′ 32" E.

This is undoubtedly the danger on which the steam vessels Avocci and Teddington struck during last year. It has midway between the two best positions, which, from conflicting evidence, could be assigned to the respective vessels when they struck. The depths around the ruck are 28 to 30 fathoms.

The Stork's search is the fourth that has been made by H. M's, ships before this small danger has been re-discovered.

Vessels passing down the Red Sea should keep to the westward of this rock, and should remember that irregular lateral currents sometimes set across the sea; and if, when on the homeward voyage, they pass eastward of Abu Ail, care should be taken to steer to the westward after rounding that island, until Jebel Zukur summit bears about S.S.E. & E.

There is little doubt that the loss of the Atocet was due to one of the lateral currents above mentioned, as not only was the steam vessel St. Oswald in company with the Avocet. also to the eastward of the correct track, but other vessels passed on both sides of the two vessels while stopped to save the crew of the Arocet.

With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 190 of 1887, on reported sunken tooks northward of Jebel Zukur seland :-

Telegraphic information has been received from Lieutenaut and Commander T. F. Pullen, II. M's. Surveying Vessel Stork, that he has found a small coral patch, with a least depth of 15 feet, situated in lat. 14° 22' 8" N , long. 420 41' 82" E.

This is undoubtedly the danger on which the steam vessels Avecet and Teddington struck during last year. It lies midway between the two best positions, which, from conflicting evidence, hould be assigned to the respective vessels when they struck. The depths eround the rock are 25 to 80 fathers.

The Stork's scarch is the fourth that has been made by H. M's. ships before this small danger has been re-discovered.

Vessels passing down the Red Sea should keep to the westward of this rock, and should remember that irregular lateral currents sometimes set across the sea; and if, when on the homeward voyage, they pass castward of Abu Ail, care should be taken to steer to the westward after rounding that island, until Jebel Zukur summit bears about S.S.E. § E.

There is little doubt that the loss of the Annel was due to one of the lateral currents above mentioned, as not only was the steam vessel St. Oswald in company with the Avocet, also to the eastward of the correct track, but other vessels passed on both sides of the two vessels while stopped to save the crew of the Arocet.
